Spirit World's Advice Bad For U.M. Professor

DETROIT (P)—The wife of a University of Michigan history professor who seeks to regain $16,400 he says he lost on bad investment advice from the spirit world, testified Friday that she and her husband acted "on faith."

Mrs. Albert Hyma, the wife of Professor Albert Hyma, said in Circuit Court that "it is hard to understand our gullibility, incredible as it may seem."

Hyma is suing the Rev. Lillian Lee, pastor of the Church of Christ Interdenominational of Detroit. He charges it was through Mrs. Lee he got the bad advice from the departed soul of Thomas Carlyle, Scottish essayist and historian.

Mrs. Hyma said she and her husband did have some doubts about investing $8,500 in a Mexican fortune that turned out to be non-existent.

And she added: "We were kind of shaken in our belief when we heard St. Francis of Assisi speak in poor Latin, but it was explained very thoroughly to us by Mrs. Lee."

The Hymas claim they also lost money by retaining stock in a company that later folded and on an oil-drilling operation near Grand Rapids. In each venture, as well as in the Mexican fortune investment, the Hymas say, they were advised by voices from the spirit world.

Mrs. Lee has testified that she was not responsible for their losses. She said she merely acted as a contact between the physical world and the realm of departed souls.

Seven Airmen Saved In Central Pacific

PEARL HARBOR (P)—Seven survivors — three of them from Michigan — were en route to this big Naval base today, after having been plucked yesterday from the mid-Pacific, where their plane went down Wednesday.

All hands were rescued. They had taken to a life raft. The transport Fred C. Ainsworth picked them up.

The Hawaiian Sea Frontier said the ship was in good condition, "but gave no details or comments from the survivors."

One From Iron Mountain

That terse message, however, brought tears of joy to the Michigan homes of Lt. James Gotfray Measel, 28, of Farmington; Aviation Electronics Technician 2C, Jerome J. Waras, 25, of Detroit; and Aviation Machinist Mate 1C William C. Pavay, of Iron Mountain.

Parents of all three had got telegrams from the Navy Friday telling them their sons were aboard an amphibious PBV that had reported engine trouble, then sent an SOS and disappeared on a flight between Johnston and Kwajalein Islands two days earlier.

"We had prayed ever since the first telegram arrived in the afternoon," said Mrs. Leo Waras, mother of the electronics technician.

Second Escape

Mrs. and Mrs. Joseph Measel were so worried they called their son's base at Norfolk, Va. They were told a raft had been sighted by a search plane, "and then neighbors and friends began to call when they heard it on radio and TV and we knew it was true."

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Pavay said they knew their son was a member of a crew ferrying a plane to Formosa, "but the telegram didn't tell us much more."

It was Pavay's second escape. In World War II his plane was shot down in the Battle of Midway, but he was rescued two hours later by a destroyer.

The Navy said Pavay's new rescue ship was due in Pearl Harbor Tuesday.

The seven had abandoned their raft for an air-dropped life boat when they were picked up in the growing darkness at 6:30 p.m. (11:30 p.m. EST) about 665 miles north of Kwajalein yesterday.

The 33-foot boat had been dropped a few hours before by an Air Force search plane.

BACK TO WORK — Mrs. Annie Lee Moss will soon be back at a job with the Army. She had been accused before Sen. Joseph McCarthy's committee of having been a Communist. Secretary of Defense Wilson said her record "does not support a conclusion that she is subversive or disloyal to the U. S.," and ordered her placed in a non-sensitive job.

Carriers Leave Manila; Beef Up U. S. 7th Fleet

TAIPEH, Formosa (P)—A U.S. Navy fast carrier task force left Manila Bay early today and was reported—but not confirmed officially—headed toward the troubled Formosan waters which swirled all week with hot air and sea action and Red China's biggest amphibious invasion of the Civil War.

Nationalist warplanes struck back Friday night and today at Yikiangshan island, invaded Tuesday by the Communists and won after bloody fighting against Nationalist guerrillas.

Carry 100 Planes Each

Yikiangshan is 8 miles north of the Nationalist Tachen Islands which are 200 miles north of Formosa and 12 miles from the China mainland.

Plans proceeded for the evacuation of Nationalist dependents from the bomb-raked Tachens, but there was growing opposition against any withdrawal of fighting men from the Tachens or any other Nationalist-held island outposts.

The 33,000-ton carriers Essex, Yorktown and Kearsarge pulled out of Manila Bay for what a Navy spokesman there termed exercises at a "regular operational area."

Capt. Alfred D. Kilmartin, naval attache at the U.S. Embassy here, said he had no knowledge of the disposition of the three carriers. He added that U.S. naval authorities on Formosa had made no statements whatever on the movements of those vessels.

But a well-placed naval source at the Pacific Fleet Headquarters in Pearl Harbor said it would be a "safe assumption" the carriers were headed for the Formosa area.

Each of the ships carry a 100-plane striking force.

Will Not Give Up

The reported move to beef up U.S. 7th Fleet units charged with the defense of Formosa emphasized Washington reports the United States might aid in moving Nationalist troops off outpost islands threatened by Red invaders.

President Eisenhower was reported preparing to ask congressional approval for such an operation if necessary.

But Nationalist Premier O. K. Yui said today his government is "firmly opposed" to withdrawal from any offshore islands.

The English-language newspaper China News said President Chiang Kai-shek's government has ordered every outpost island defended at all costs, just like Yikiangshan.

The Nationalists said 720 Guerrillas on Yikiangshan fought to the last man against overwhelming Communist air, sea and land forces.

The Nationalist Defense Ministry said its bombers flew out in six waves during the night against Yikiangshan island and communist shipping in the area.

All planes returned despite heavy antiaircraft fire over Yikiangshan, the Ministry said.

Poison Sandwich Wife Gets Test By Psychiatrist

IONIA (P)—A psychiatric examination has been ordered for Mrs. Edith White, 34, of Clarksville, accused of trying to murder her husband by smearing a sandwich with rat poison and placing it in his lunch box.

Circuit Judge Morris K. Davis approved the examination on the request of Mrs. White's husband, Floyd, 38, a Grand Rapids factory worker. White must pay examination costs.

Mrs. White already has pleaded guilty in Justice Court to a charge of attempted murder. Her husband, however, has said he is willing to "forgive and forget."

The psychiatric examination will be held at Kent County Receiving Hospital by Dr. Kenneth C. Nickel and Dr. David B. Davis, two Grand Rapids psychiatrists.

White discovered the poisoned sandwich when he bit into it during a rest period at work. He was not seriously affected.

The State Police laboratory at East Lansing said the sandwich had been smeared with a "lethal dose" of rat poison.

Frozen Stiff; Woman Survives

WASHINGTON (P)—A middle-aged woman found lying "frozen stiff" Friday on the porch of her suburban home was reported improving but running a slight fever early today.

When admitted to Prince Georges General Hospital in nearby Cheverly, Md., the woman's body temperature was estimated at 75 degrees. Normal body temperature is 98.6 degrees.

Police identified her as Mrs. Annie Walls, about 45, of Bladensburg, Md.

The woman's condition remained critical but the hospital said she had become more rational since regaining consciousness Friday.

Police said Mrs. Walls apparently had collapsed on a concrete front porch of her home about 10 p.m. Tuesday. When she was found about 8:30 a.m. Friday, authorities said she appeared to be "frozen stiff."

Doctors at first could find no evidence of pulse or blood pressure. The woman's heart was beating about half its normal rate, they said.

Mrs. Walls' case is similar to that of Chicago's "deep freeze" woman, 23-year-old Dorothy Mae Stevens who was found lying in an alley in February, 1951. Miss Stevens survived though her body temperature was officially recorded at 64 degrees.

Rebel Convicts Give Up In Boston Prison

BOSTON (P)—Four desperate, hostage-holding convicts surrendered their stronghold inside ancient Massachusetts State Prison Friday in exchange for "some glimmer of hope" after their long prison terms.

The escape-mad rebel four yielded five guards and six fellow convict hostages, two guns and themselves to a 7-man civilian negotiating committee after an 80-hour holdout of snarling death threats.

Penal authorities immediately began an investigation into the prison uprising and Massachusetts Atty. Gen. George Fingold said he personally will prosecute the four who face additional sentences up to 20 years.

Talked Six Hours

Spokesman for the negotiating committee, Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, said the civic group made "no bargain or deal" with the convicts but promised to try "to get something" so the convicts "would have some hope for the future."

Canham, whose committee was chosen by the convicts themselves, described the tense climax of the discussions inside the grim granite jail like this:

"Until the precise moment when (they) pulled their guns from their dungaree pockets, slipped out the clips or bullets, and tossed them on the table before us, we did not know whether the men would choose tragedy or hope."

"We had talked, back and forth, for some six hours to try and bring them to choose hope."

"You Rot"

The convicts, among them notorious bank robber and escape artist Theodore Green, listed their grievances for the committee. All complaints concerned the medieval facilities of the 150-year-old bastille which is due to be abandoned later this year for a new prison in Norfolk. Said Canham:

"Teddy Green asked me to step into one of these gloomy dungeons. He shut the barred door and turned out the lights in the corridor. Then, in his tense, hard voice, he described life in these cells. That was about 2 a.m. Friday morning, and I have rarely had a more intensely moving 2 a.m."

"And so for three solid hours we sat and talked—listened, mostly. The convicts complained of their utter frustration, but most of all of the horrors of protracted solitary confinement. 'You rot,' they said."

"No mawkish note, no false sympathy, no disguise of their crimes entered the discussion. They freely avowed they had a debt to pay to society. But they wanted to be brought to trial, to get on with their punishment, and to see whether—way down at the end of the road — there might not be a year or two of liberty left for them."

The five hostage guards, unharmed, clean shaven and refreshed despite their long ordeal of threats and captivity, were reluctant to talk about their experience. Their spokesman, Warren L. Harrington, said "We're tired and that is all."

The convicts—Green, robber-gunner Walter Balben, rapist Joseph Flaherty, and cop slayer Fritz Swenson—were returned immediately to their cells to await a "speedy trial" promised by Gov. Christian A. Herter.

Air Force May Fire Colonel Linked With Berlin Woman Spy

WASHINGTON (P)—The Air Force has accused Col. Patrick W. Hayes of associating with a German girl who pleaded guilty to spying for Russia, and ordered him to show cause why he should not be dismissed from the service.

The girl, brunette Irmgard M. Schmidt, 24, was described by the prosecution in Germany last month as one of the most dangerous spies in Berlin since World War II. The Air Force said there was no indication she got any secrets from Hayes, formerly an intelligence officer there, but it raised questions of his "judgment and conduct."

Hayes, 47 and listed by the Air Force as married, was notified yesterday he could have a hearing before a board of senior officers.

The Air Force hearing outcome could be Hayes' discharge from the service under other than honorable conditions. The proceeding was described as administrative, not a court-martial.

Hayes could not be reached for comment.

The Air Force said Friday an investigation had disclosed no evidence that Miss Schmidt had received classified information from Hayes or any other member of the Air Force.

Miss Schmidt drew a five year prison term last month after she pleaded guilty in a U.S. High Commission court to wheeling military secrets from two U.S. intelligence officers. She had been described by American officials some time ago as the mistress of an Air Force Intelligence officer. The names of officers involved did not come out in court.

Miss Schmidt said she was in the pay of the Communists and among the items of information she admitted handing over to the Russians was a detailed battle order for the Allied defense of West Berlin.

Hayes now is assigned to the Air Force headquarters command at Bolling Field here.

He was born in Scranton, Pa., but his home now is in nearby Alexandria, Va.

Glass In Gooseberry Pie Wins Him $3,500

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (P)—The piece of glass that aircraft engineer Peter M. Tropea said he didn't expect to find in his gooseberry pie won him a $3,500 jury verdict.

Tropea testified he found the glass in the pie served to him in the Hughes Aircraft Co. cafeteria May 8, 1953. He sued for $75,000. The aircraft company, a catering firm operating the cafeteria and the bakery which supplied the pie were held jointly liable for Tropea's damages.

Dr. M. E. Herrold, deputy coroner, identified the dead as Eugene Klinger, 24, Larry Walbert, 11, and Robert Klinger, 15 months.

He said all three lived in a small six-room frame house near Wiconisco. The house was destroyed.

Freed Soldier In Guardhouse

BERLIN (P)—U. S. Army doctors said today Pvt. William A. Verdone of Starks, La., survived six years of Soviet captivity without incurring any serious physical ailment.

Verdone was released from the army hospital today and placed in the guardhouse pending an inquiry to determine if he is to be tried by court-martial.

The soldier was released by the Russians two days ago and complained of stomach trouble and also expressed fear for his heart. He also said he had suffered severe coughing spells while working in Vorkuta labor camp in Arctic Russia.

The soldier disappeared from his unit at Coburg, West Germany, Feb. 3, 1949. He has been carried on the Army roster as absent without official leave. The investigation now under way is to determine if Verdone shall be tried on AWOL or desertion charges. The latter is far more serious.

Los Angeles Council Horrified By Statue

LOS ANGELES (P)—Nearly every man and his sister posed as an art critic here today after the hurried, flurried unveiling of an ultra-modernist bronze statue decorating the new police building.

They almost had to call the cops at its first guarded showing Friday.

The only unconcerned people were the four elongated figures in sculptor Bernard Rosenthal's 14-foot statue, which he rushed into place before irate city councilmen threatened to tear it down and melt it up.

The group, representing a father, a young boy, a mother and child—"because the police department is dedicated to the protection of the family," the sculptor said—looks like nobody's family this side of Mars. At least, not like councilman Harold Harby's family.

"A shameless, soulless, faceless, raceless, gutless monstrosity," Harby opined. He introduced a resolution asking that the sculpture be sent to the melting pot and recast into a plaque honoring policemen killed in the line of duty.

The resolution was referred to the police and fire commission and to City Atty. Roger Arnebergh.

Arnebergh, taking his first view of the highly burnished statue through dark glasses, said offhand he thought the council had the right to tear it down once the city had fulfilled its contract with Rosenthal.

The sculptor, who is receiving $10,000 for his work, promptly declared he will sue if necessary to keep his angular, hand-hammered group standing.

Britain Blacked Out In Dense Fog Today

LONDON (P)—Dense fog blacked out Britain today. It played havoc with shipping in the North Sea and English Channel and stalled traffic up and down the country.

The 7,176-ton Panamanian freighter Mando ran aground off the Scilly Isles and the London coaster Kingsbridge, another 7,000-tonner, grounded off the Isle of Wight. Swirling fog banks hampered rescue work as lifeboats and tugs stood by.

Planes were grounded at London Airport, where visibility was down to less than 100 yards.

A warm air stream brought relief, however, to the desolate Highlands of Scotland, snowbound for the last two weeks.

Seine River Floods Suburbs Of Paris

PARIS (P)—Alarm increased in Paris today as the muddy, mounting Seine river swirled over more suburbs and invaded basements on both banks in the city itself.

In St. Maurice, a big suburb east of Paris, 1,000 people had to be evacuated when the river collapsed a dike and flooded low sections.

At Choisy Le Roi, southeast of Paris, 2,000 inhabitants have fled from their flooded homes in the past 48 hours.

All along the river, both east and west of Paris, workmen are building sandbag barriers, racing against the ever-climbing water.

Already water had seeped into cellars of such historic buildings in the heart of the city as the Notre Dame Cathedral, on an island in the river, and the Palais Bourbon, which houses the National Assembly. Today, more buildings on the left bank were invaded and many homes on the fashionable west side. The polo field and Longchamps racetrack in the Bois De Boulogne were submerged.

Rush Ahead On License Tags

Thousands of motorists in the Escanaba area are still without their 1955 automobile license tags and a rush for new plates is inevitable before the March 1 deadline, Hugh Grow, branch manager, has reported.

Approximately 1300 passenger licenses have been sold thus far. At least 6500 automobiles in the area must be equipped with new tags before the deadline.

Automobile owners are reminded that they must have their car titles when they apply for license plates. Those who have lost their titles must apply for duplicate, a procedure that usually takes two to three weeks. No license plates can be issued to motorists who fail to produce their titles.

Horsepower Race Not Yet Ended In Automotive Circles

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Auto Editor
DETROIT (AP) — The power surge in automobile engines apparently still is far from its goal.

Chrysler's recent announcement of a 300 horsepower car engine started anew the comment about a "Horsepower race" among the engine designers. Most of the industry's engineers deny such a race is under way. At the same time there appears to be considerable promotional effort associated with the development of steadily higher powered car engines.

Engineers in New York this week for General Motors' Motorama were among the first to deny that several car companies are racing with each other to claim the highest powered engine in stock cars.

Charles A. Chayne, General Motors vice president in charge of the corporation's engineering staff, is one of those who asserts increased reserve power in the modern motor vehicle means safer performance, increased fuel economy and longer engine life.

There are engineers who insist the maximum horsepower of a car never is used. They add, too, that the increased power output is necessary to accommodate the increasing number of special devices being added to the equipment of the newer model cars.

One very definite fact about today's higher powered engines is that they still remain exclusively in the higher price car class. It is also true, as one leading engineer said that week, that any motorist could wreck his car — and even kill himself — as quickly with a five horsepower engine as he could with a 500-horsepower installation.

Doctor Needed At Bark River

MENOMINEE—The departure from Powers of Dr. Stanford K. Sweeney, who is on leave for post-graduate studies of indeterminate length in Chicago, has left the top of Menominee County with a doctor problem.

Dr. Sweeney was in private practice and was also assistant to Dr. John W. Towey, medical director of Pinecrest Sanatorium at Powers.

Dr. Towey is currently without an assistant and there is no resident physician in private medical practice from Daggett to Escanaba and Norway. This shortage has prompted an effort to obtain the release from the U. S. Army of Dr. Charles Nagy, a native of Toledo and graduate of the medical school of Northwestern University, who has purchased the home and medical dispensary of the late Dr. Nathan Frenn at Bark River and who will take over his practice upon his release from the service, scheduled for May. Dr. Nagy recently returned to the United States from Korea.

If he were declared essential to the area he will serve in northern Menominee County he might be released by military authorities, say the persons active in efforts to hasten his service at Bark River.

Grandpa Was Right; Winters Are Not Like The Old Days

LANSING (AP)—Grandpa, much maligned for his observations on the weather, was closer to the truth than most people realize: Winters just aren't what they used to be.

His tall tales about a snowy past when you could cross Lake Superior on the ice and the snow drifted higher than a 16-hand horse are borne out by modern-day meteorologists.

In Michigan, there are plenty of signs that today's winters are anemic things compared to those of 50 years ago.

One of the signs of a general warming is the northward migration of birds and animals. A bird guide published in 1926 says the northernmost range of the mockingbird was the Mason-Dixie Line. Now it nests in Rogers City.

The opossum, long considered an animal of the South, is a fairly common sight in most parts of the Lower Peninsula.

In the Upper Peninsula, the crowns of the yellow birch are dying. Botanists say the tree, which requires a cold climate, is suffering from the advancing warmth.

Resort operators throughout the state are frankly worried about the late winter this year, which has dealt a blow to winter sports.

Most likely, this is something more than a late winter; it is a lesser winter.

"Michigan winters are definitely getting warmer," says A. H. Eichmeier, state climatologist.

"We made a study of the 20-year period ending in 1930 as compared to the 20-year period ending in 1950," he said. "We found that in the later period the three months of December, January and February were an average 1½ degrees warmer than in the earlier period."

Why are winters getting warmer? There are a lot of theories. Geologists say the earth is going through a gradual warming process. The polar ice caps are receding and great glaciers are melting.

This is a gradual process, one that takes tens of thousands of years.

Mr. Boyer has been managing director of the Marquette County Historical Society since last April and is a native of Marquette. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan and prior to his present position was engaged in newspaper and radio work.

At the annual business meeting of the Delta County Historical Society there will be annual reports presented by officers and directors, and officers will be elected for the ensuing year.

Relatives May Visit 17 Americans Held Prisoner By Chinese

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Red China announced Friday that the relatives of 17 Americans held in Chinese jails are welcome to visit the prisoners.

The United States, however, does not extend diplomatic recognition to Red China and there was no indication the State Department would provide passports good for travel there—even in the event any of the relatives should desire to go. Mrs. Edwin Heller, wife of a lieutenant colonel held in China, said at Philadelphia she had been advised the United States could extend her no protection. She added she did not believe her husband would want her to go, anyway.

The Red Chinese bid for relatives' visits were announced simultaneously in Peiping and at the United Nations.

The United Nations issued the following note disclosing this action:

"As is being announced this morning from Peiping, Premier Chou En-lai, during his talks with Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, indicated that the government of the People's Republic of China would provide facilities for relatives to visit those United States personnel who had been convicted and those whose cases were

Communists Apparently Begin To Believe Their Own Untruths

WE can be pretty sure that the Communists have enough spies in this country to report a good deal of valuable information to their masters in Russia and China. But in one vital field these agents either do not report what they could easily detect, or their reports are not believed in Moscow and Peking.

That is the area of American intentions. Of course it is deliberate diplomatic policy to keep them guessing, if we can, as to some of our intentions. For example, how far we might go in helping Chiang Kai-shek defend various Nationalist-held islands close to the Red Chinese mainland.

But we are not trying to fool anybody as to our great intention to avoid war if it can be done without appeasement. We have no wish to invade Communist lands or any other, no aim to conquer a square inch of foreign soil.

Furthermore, we are among the most unwarlike peoples on the globe. We have never sought armed conflict but have al-

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Life in coeducational colleges today continues to baffle greybeards who graduated in the dim old era of the '40s. In Oklahoma City University, for instance, an attractive underclasswoman named Charlotte took a classified ad in the student paper in an effort to recall the following articles: she seemed to have lost: a fountain pen, eye glasses, two mechanical pencils, a suitcase, purple formal, one shoe, billfold, a $3 check, two cornets, a pajama bottom, and a white shirt. Charlotte, furthermore, was genuinely surprised when her ad created a bit of furore. "Isn't it normal for a girl to mislay things like that?" she demanded.

The psychiatrist stroked his chin and admitted to the tortured-looking character across the desk. "You're one of the most difficult cases that ever came here seeking my help. Is there any insanity in your family?" "There must be," maintained the character. "They keep writing me for money!"

The Baptism Of The Spirit

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Recently, on a return visit to a church in which I had served for a time I had the pleasure and the honor of standing before the pastor and his wife in the presence of the congregation, and baptizing their little babe.

The minister had requested me to use the formula "in the Name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost"—the Holy Ghost instead of the Holy Spirit. It is the words "Holy Spirit" that are probably more commonly used today, and I noticed that in the minister's prayer and other references during the church service he himself used the words "Holy Spirit."

I felt that it would perhaps be an impertinence to ask him why he preferred the words "Holy Ghost" in the baptismal service, while he otherwise referred to the "Holy Spirit"; but nevertheless I wondered somewhat about the distinction.

My impression is that in the baptism of his child he preferred the ancient formula, while in his ministry he made a prevalent concession to a dislike of the word "Ghost," because of associations that tend to suggest something weird and uncanny, rather than holy.

But the incident seems to suggest questions in many minds concerning the Holy Ghost, or the Holy Spirit. To orthodox believers, belief does not imply a lack of mystery in the conception of the Trinity—One God in Three Persons; Father, Son, and Holy Ghost.

I cannot profess in any way to explain that mystery.

It is a matter in which I think we may be well advised to stick very closely to what the Bible has to say. The Bible everywhere emphasizes the moral and spiritual nature of God. But, in contrast with what has happened during the Christian centuries of the church, there is little concerning the sort of metaphysical questions and speculations that from ancient times to our own have rent Christendom in bitter controversial wars.

Could all this have happened if men had believed above all else that God is Love?

The New Testament makes plain the reality of the Holy Spirit, and what the Scriptures call "the baptism of the Holy Ghost." Jesus spoke of the Comforter who would come, a spiritual Presence; continuing after He had gone on what His earthly, bodily presence had been to His disciples. He did not define the exact nature of that Spirit, but it was manifestly so entirely related to Himself, that we may be justified in referring to it, as we often do, as "the real presence of Christ."

The baptism of the Spirit undoubtedly represented an endowment of higher experience and power than in formal belief.

My impression is that this endowment was a progress from belief to complete consecration. And I am always mindful that when Paul would emphasize the nature of the Spirit he defined it in its fruit (Ephesians 5:9; Galatians 5:22,23).

The baptism of the Holy Spirit is a baptism of holiness in life and action. It is to that experience that every professing Christian should aspire.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—What the President of the United States says about the business outlook is usually the product of what his economic advisers have assembled from the most authentic data available.

Hence, when Mr. Eisenhower says there is a good chance for a healthy expansion of the national economy, it is a well considered judgment.

"Economic well-being," he says, "sustains our whole national life. A high and rising standard of living brings to more of our people the opportunity for continued intellectual and spiritual growth."

This is the thesis which the President's economic report to Congress has emphasized. But, entirely apart from the statistical facts, there is such a thing as a good or bad climate for business. Mr. Eisenhower says:

"A free economy has great capacity to generate jobs and incomes if a feeling of confidence in the economic future is widely shared by investors, workers, businessmen, farmers and consumers."

STIFLING INITIATIVE

But what is that "feeling of confidence"? What makes it and what breaks it? Unrestrained spending and a reckless disregard for the soundness of the nation's currency is one thing, but almost as destructive is the tendency in some quarters to put the government into all sorts of businesses, thus stifling private initiative and rendering uncertain the future of many enterprises. To those in doubt on that point, the President makes this significant comment in his message:

"The role of the federal government in the achievement of these goals is to create an atmosphere favorable to economic activity by encouraging private initiative, curbing monopolistic tendencies, avoiding encroachment on the private sector of the economy, and carrying out as much of its own work as is practicable through private enterprise."

"It should take its full part at the side of state and local governments in providing appropriate public facilities. It should restrain tendencies toward recession or inflation. It should widen opportunities for less fortunate citizens, and help individuals to cope with the hazards of unemployment, illness, old age, and blighted neighborhoods."

STATE CAPITALISM

This is a general statement, of course, but it breathes the spirit of a conservative liberalism as opposed to what might be called a radical liberalism. None of us who support the first of the two schools of thought wants to see governmental intervention in the economic life of the country prohibited, for the truth is it has been going on ever since the days of Alexander Hamilton, who urged protective tariffs for "infant industries." But this principle is far different from plunging the government into the electric-power business, which is what the critics of the Dixon-Yates contract are really eager to accomplish. But if government ownership is right in one case, it is right in all others. And then state capitalism takes over the field of private enterprise.

At the root, however, of all these controversies between those who want to conserve the fruits of the individual's labor—his savings and his property—and those who are ready to confiscate a large part of both to assist specially privileged groups or areas, there is the basic question of solvency for the government itself.

Earlier this week the President in his budget message made a telling point when he said:

"We must maintain financial strength. Preserving the value of the dollar is a matter of vital concern to each of us. Surely no one will advocate a special tax on the widows and orphans, pensioners, and working people with fixed incomes. Yet inflation acts like a tax which hits these groups hardest. This administration has made a stable dollar and economy in government operations positive policies from the top down."

The big question now is which of the two major political parties will have the better record on this point when the 1956 campaign is at hand. For the Democratic party is in control of both houses of Congress and can by unrestrained spending, break down confidence in the dollar, thus bringing on inflation, or it can aid the Republican administration in cutting expenses so as to balance the budget.

Five Years Of Freedom, And Nehru Has World On String

more British than Indian

LONDON—(NEA)—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru has spent 16 of his 65 years in British jails as a fighter for Indian freedom. As such, his toughest foe in the past has been Sir Winston Churchill.

Yet, to see the two prime ministers together at a recent reunion of Harrow old school grads, one would have thought them lifelong buddies.

Beaming, they proposed toasts to each other, sang "Forty Years On," the Harrow school song, for both are products of this most snobbish of British boys' schools.

Pandit Nehru has no reason to love the British. But such are the contradictions in his character that he is probably more British in his makeup than Indian.

Gandhi once remarked, "When Jawahar talks in his sleep, he speaks in English."

As for the British, they have every reason to distrust Nehru. Yet such are the political realities of 1955, they have come to regard him as indispensable. Only Nehru stands between India and the long, dark nightmare of chaos—so runs British Foreign Office thinking.

"We may not always get along with Nehru, but we can't get along without him."

This month (Jan. 25) as India celebrates its fifth anniversary as a republic within the British Commonwealth of Nations, the pandit appears to have the world on a string.

The United States is preparing to pour dollars into India as part of its "aid to under-developed countries" program.

Red China and Soviet Russia have jepped up their wooing to a furious pace. Russia has offered India a steel mill as a present. Nehru and Chou En-lai have been swapping State visits.

Coming attraction for 1955: Nehru's visit to Moscow for a cozy chat with Brother Malenkov.

What is the secret of Nehru's sudden popularity? According to those who have studied him closely it can be summed up in a slogan: "Keep 'em guessing."

Nehru, they argue, is shrewd enough to realize that once India aligns itself with either of the two power blocs, it will count for nothing in world affairs. By remaining aloof, India, with luck, can have the best of both worlds.

The trouble with "Nehru-rality," as it has come to be known, is that it is a one-way traffic street. Thus, under the guise of mediating between the Communist and free worlds, his ingenious formula permits Nehru:

1. To sponsor Red China's admission to the United Nations, while keeping mum about the American airmen who are being held prisoners by the Chinese.
2. To preach non-violence, while keeping an army poised against Pakistan on the Kashmir cease-fire line.
3. To criticize British colonial policy in Cyprus, while engineering the grab of French and Portuguese colonies in India.
4. To pick a quarrel with fellow Commonwealth member, South Africa, over the racial issue, while doing little to improve the lot of India's 50 million "Untouchables."

It also serves to distract the attention of 360,000,000 Indians from more pressing problems. In many ways India today is worse off than when the British pulled out of it in 1947.

Unemployment is growing, the old inequalities of wealth are more glaring than ever, the benefits of five-year planning are being gobbled up by each new population increase.

The fortunes of Nehru's Congress Party are at low ebb, its active membership having dropped from 300,000 in 1953 to 71,000 last year. On the other hand, the Communists are gaining ground.

The only person who seems unperturbed by the situation is Pandit Nehru, himself.

Nehru starts his day by standing on his head Yogi-fashion, and there are those who are willing to swear that he views the world from this position for the rest of the day. His moods are unpredictable, his subordinates never are sure which of the many Nehrus they will have to deal with.

Will it be Nehru, the benign? The man who releases 65 white doves on his birthday, while school children shower him with rose petals?

Or the terrible-tempered Nehru? In his autobiography, the pandit recounts his struggle to master the technique of non-violence, how once he was tempted to pull from his horse a policeman who was beating him with a night-stick.

PENSIVE NEHRU wearing rose dreams aloud of quitting.

Most recent outburst of temper occurred at Rangoon airport when Nehru angrily swung a baton to clear a path for himself through a throng of Burmese admirers. Their flower garlands he tossed back at them as though they were brickbats.

Then there is the pensive Nehru. Smelling the tea-colored rose which he wears in his lapel, Nehru is apt to dream aloud of quitting office as prime minister. The mere suggestion that he entertains such ideas is enough to throw his followers into a panic.

Since his return from Red China, India is seeing a new, a more dynamic Nehru. The things that impressed him most about the Chinese were their "enthusiasm," well-rehearsed for his benefit no doubt, and their discipline. He is determined to impart these qualities to his own people.

Already, he is talking about a Welfare State along Socialist lines. As a starter for his "soak the rich" program he has proposed the nationalization of the steel industry, the establishment of a State credit bank.

Nehru would prefer to use the democratic "carrot," rather than the totalitarian "stick," but those who know him well claim that he has all the makings of a dictator.

As usual, Nehru's policy is "Keep 'em guessing."

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — There has been a terrific ruckus in Washington the last few months over Republican efforts to get their political patronage machinery working better.

The storm began when a young White House assistant, Charles F. Willis, Jr., issued an order to all government agencies to start reporting and filling their job vacancies and making promotions through his office.

When government agencies report to Mr. Willis on job vacancies they have coming up, they are not to be filled for 30 days. This gives the GOP patronage machine a chance to spin its wheels and see if a Republican job hunter cannot be found to qualify.

This applies to the so-called "303" jobs for which there is no register of qualified Civil Service applicants. Most of these jobs are outside Washington. Formerly they were filled by local hiring. Now they must be cleared through Washington.

On the higher grade, presidential appointees, Mr. Willis tries to keep the Republican National Committee headquarters informed on vacancies coming up for six months ahead.

THIS GIVES CHAUNCEY ROBBINS, director of personnel and assistant to National Chairman Leonard Hall, a chance to notify senators and representatives of vacancies in their states and districts. The congressmen can then notify their state GOP chairmen of vacancies. They may relay the news to county chairmen. By this daisy chain, Republican talent is supposed to be unearthed.

Mr. Robbins at GOP headquarters also maintains his own file of Republican applicants for jobs—any job. He says his file has about 3000 names in it all the time. Some 50 new applications come in every week.

Many of them are requests from congressmen or state and local political leaders. Some come from the applicants direct. About the same number of applicants drop out every week, because there are no vacancies. Many are requests for jobs that simply don't exist.

If a vacancy turns up, however, for say a lawyer with antitrust experience, the Robbins personnel office will go through its cards. If it finds an applicant who seems to have the right qualifications, his file is sent to the hiring agency. But it's up to the agency in every case whether it hires the GOP regular, or takes someone else.

ALL GOVERNMENT LAWYERS ARE IN what is known as Civil Service Schedule A. Such employees can be hired without examination. The Republicans could have asked for the resignations of all lawyers who did not have Civil Service status when the GOP came to Washington in 1953, but it didn't.

How many may have been fired, GOP headquarters says it does not know. It was up to each agency to decide for itself. But those lawyers who now remain on the government payroll can hardly be got out of office with dynamite, says Mr. Robbins somewhat regretfully.

In Civil Service Schedule B are such government employees as U. S. deputy marshals. They can be appointed after passing a noncompetitive examination. GOP headquarters assumes that only good Republicans have been appointed to such jobs. But it has kept no records up to now and doesn't know.

The really sad story from the Republican point of view relates to Schedule C. Here are the top policy-making jobs. There were 1052 of them in government at the last count. The Republicans feel they should have them all if the GOP is to run a responsible and loyal administration.

THESE SCHEDULE C JOBS ALSO INCLUDE confidential assistants to policy makers. That covers private secretaries, public relations advisers and even chauffeurs. But in this lower category of confidential assistant, the Republicans say they have made little inroad. All they have been able to grab off are some 250 to 300 policy-making jobs.

The Willis directive, which has been defended by President Eisenhower, is intended to change this situation. It has recently placed a number of lame-duck congressmen in important jobs. They were vacated in some cases by firing Civil Service employees, with long records under the Democrats.

This practice has been damned by government workers all over Washington as a threat to wreck the Civil Service and the merit promotion system. This is what will be investigated by Democratic congressional committees.

Contract Bridge

A PROVOCATIVE HAND

Pass Pass Pass Pass

Although South's hand was normal enough, with the most frequent distribution (4-4-3-2), the other hands were decidedly unbalanced, and, as is usually the case, trouble was in store for the player who ended up declarer.

This does not mean, however, that the six-club contract should not have been reached—quite to the contrary. Any expert looking at only the North-South cards would probably be willing to wager 50 to 1 that six clubs could be made, with a fair play for seven. Actually, however, South went down—and through no fault of his own.

West opened the heart king. Dummy ruffed, but a tentative trump lead by South disclosed the sad state of affairs, and there was no salvation. Even if South had not drawn that one trump he could not have shut out the setting trick. At first glance it appears that dummy's low diamonds can be ruffed out while South retains full control, but that is an illusion.

It is a strange and significant fact, however, that so small a transposition as the six and seven of clubs between the East and North hands allows the contract to be made! With that change, South can ruff two low diamonds and still keep East from getting a trump trick, so that only one diamond or one heart need finally be conceded.

It was certainly bad luck for North-South that such a logical slam contract should have failed by so narrow a margin.

Exchange Teacher From Germany Lauds School System In America

"Escanaba has a very good educational system in its public schools," stated Miss Rosa Boeckl, an elementary school teacher in the Bavarian section of Germany, who is presently in Escanaba observing elementary education methods in the public schools of the United States.

"The American schools seem to help the individual students more than they do in Germany, but this may be due to the fact that the schools here are better equipped for that purpose. In Escanaba, the schools have room for special education, the physically handicapped and slow learners, while in Germany, there are no special rooms. The schools there are too crowded and teachers are very limited. Here the schools have more teachers, plus special education teachers and less students," Miss Boeckl said.

"There is not much difference in the teaching methods between the two countries. The chief difference in subjects is that the girls are taught needlework beginning in the first grade and the boys are taught handicrafts when they reach the third; both of these subjects playing an important role in Germany's education for youths.

"Separate schools are maintained for the boys and girls in the towns, but in the rural areas, due to limited conditions, the boys and girls attend classes together. There are only private kindergartens in my country, and most children begin their education with the first grade, after reaching the age of six years."

Miss Boeckl heard of the teacher exchange program through the superintendent of schools in the Waldassen district, where she was teaching. Rosa then applied for the program, was given an examination, passed it and was selected as one of the teachers to benefit by the program. Fifty-seven other teachers from various sections of Germany were also selected.

Arrived Aug. 23

The German teachers, along with 320 teachers from many different European countries, left in August aboard the S. S. Independence for the United States, and they landed in New York City Aug. 23. The teachers who will return to their countries on Feb. 17 aboard the S. S. Constitution, spent a short time in New York City and Philadelphia before their 14 day visit in the capital city, Washington D. C. While in Washington, they were escorted and entertained by officials of the State Department, one of the groups sponsoring the exchange program.

From Washington, a group of approximately 20 teachers, of which Rosa was a member, traveled to Texas where they attended Southwest Texas State Teachers College, located near Austin, for three months. Special classes were held at the college for the foreign teachers, and they were conducted on weekly tours around the countryside which pointed out important aspects of American life and American schools. While there, Rosa also took classes in English and art.

During the Christmas holidays, five German teachers, including Miss Boeckl, who were in Texas on the exchange program, and a student from the Texas college traveled by car to California for the two week holiday season.

Only One In U. P.

Upon the group's return to Texas, Rosa left via train for Lansing where she attended a conference of several days on American education with eight other foreign teachers, who were to observe education in Michigan schools. Rosa is the only exchange teacher in the Upper Peninsula.

The attractive and young teacher was born in a little village near Waldassen, called Gumpen, and during her school days she had a walk of about two miles to obtain her education. She attended high school and graduated in 1946, after the war was over. During the war, school was not held during one year. Not all German students have the opportunity to attend high school; they are given examinations during their elementary years to determine whether they are eligible for high school education.

for three years in a town about 20 miles from her home town. While at school, she stayed in private homes because all the dormitories were occupied as hospitals. She has been teaching for the past five years in the elementary grades and has taught children in grades two, three, four and six. Upon her return to Germany, she will teach the fifth grade.

Near Czech Border

Waldassen is a town located only four miles from Czechoslovakia, which is under Communist influence. The border between the two countries is watched very closely on the Czechoslovakia side. No one is to enter or leave that country. An example is a recent event which occurred in Rosa's home town when two of the town women went picking berries in the forest near the border and unknowingly crossed the border, which was not marked in that particular spot. They were apprehended by two Red soldiers and were prisoners across the border for eight days before being released.

All around the Czechoslovakian border, the German towns are overpopulated with refugees. Waldassen had a population of 4,000 people before the war and now its population is 8,000. The Germans are attempting to enlarge their factories to make jobs available to these people, unwilling to live under Communist rule.

"I have learned a great deal during my stay in the United States," Rosa Boeckl ended. "This was a wonderful opportunity, and I am very grateful to have been one of those selected to visit your country."

HANDLES THROTTLE—A. W. Durchie, Minneapolis, traveling engineer for the Soo Line, was at the throttle of old 447 last steam locomotive making run on Gladstone division this week. of employment. Steam men will not be used in the shops, being replaced by engineers and diesel mechanics. Diesel engineers from as far as Neenah will be 'shopped' here, Fardal said.

The Press reporter was invited by Supt. Fardal to make all or part of the last steam train trip and with Traveling Engineer A. W. Durchie climbed aboard the cab of old 447 at Rapid River where the train had stopped on its south-bound trip from Eben Junction to pick up a car of pulp.

Precautions Taken

Train orders were picked up at the Rapid River depot and called for picking up four tank cars of gasoline at Kipling. A check revealed freight train No. 15 had left Manistique 30 minutes before.

Engineer Hoiby suggested to Durchie that he 'haul' the train to Gladstone and the final short run was started. At intervals Fireman Stearns opened the boiler or fire-pit doors (they operated by steam when a foot pedal was pressed) and shoveled in six to eight scoops of coal. It seemed like a lot of firing (the steam was kept at 185 pounds) but Bob said that this was easy—"If we had a drag I'd be on the floor all the time", apparently meaning that he'd be busy shoveling instead of up on his seat on the side opposite the engineer. He also kept his eye on the glass to maintain proper water level in the boiler.

This side of Masonville the train slowed to a stop and Brakeman Louis dropped off the back end and set some torpedoes on the rails. This was a safety precaution to guard against possible accident while the stop was made at Kipling for the tank cars. It was explained that when the torpedoes exploded under the wheels of No. 15's locomotive it warned the crew and called for restricted speed for a specified distance, in this case one mile.

When the tank cars were picked up it was learned that safety precautions are again taken in that a gasoline car must not be closer to the locomotive than five cars nor closer to the end of the train than five cars.

Into Gladstone and the end of the line for old 447 and others.

Asked what he thought of the change Engineer Hoiby responded "Well, when you're raised in steam, it's hard to get used to the idea."

Rock Man Invents New Knife-Sharpening Tool

ROCK—After three years of patient and often discouraging progress of building and testing down his work, Herman Johnson of Rock, finally came up with an invention which can now be used to precision grind the thousands of small knives used for cutting poplar or aspen wood in the manufacturing of excelsior.

About 25 years ago, Rock boasted of an excelsior mill. At that time all the small knives were ground by hand. While visiting at Rice Lake, Wis., about three years ago, Mr. Johnson noted that they were still being sharpened in the same manner. This is a very slow and tedious job. Though various persons had tried to make an improvement over the hand grinding, no one had come up with any success.

Returning home, Mr. Johnson began putting into form the plans that had been formulating in his mind. He kept working at it during his spare time aside from being a carpenter. Though he had to tear down all he had made and begin all over again, he finally turned out a machine which is much better than what he had first started to make.

It automatically precision grinds ten knives continually, turning out one every second with near razor sharp edge, which is impossible to duplicate by hand. The knives resemble a flat pencil which is seven inches long and is sharpened until it is down to two inches in length.

After completing his machine, which resembles a kitchen table with added accessories, he had put it on trial for efficiency at the excelsior mill at Rice Lake, Wis., for about six months. Proving to be far superior to the old method, the American Excelsior Corporation of Chicago bought the invention and will manufacture the machines at Oshkosh, Wis.

Excelsior is used for packing of furniture and other things for shipment. The best grade is baled like hay and shipped to the Imperial Valley in California, for the packing of watermelon for shipment to various parts of the country.

Dictionary Helps Puzzled Lover, 14

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A 14-year-old boy phoned his 14-year-old girl friend but was told by the girl's father that "she's slightly indisposed and has already retired."

The lad later told his pals: "I thought she had been bad and had been sent to bed — until I looked it up in the dictionary."

Northern Motor Rebuilders Expands, Fully Recovered From Disastrous Fire

Northern Motor Rebuilders is one of Escanaba's more successful industries — despite a history involving several moves to new locations in the community and a fire from which the industry recovered in a record-breaking 34 days.

That fire of Nov. 11, 1953, was in a sense a turning point in the course of events for Northern Motor Rebuilders. That the industry continues to operate here, now employs 67 persons and is expanding, can be attributed to H. J. Norton's confidence in the Escanaba community and the City Council's cooperation in rebuilding the Rebuilders' fire-damaged plant.

Norton, president of Northern Motor Rebuilders, refused attractive offers to relocate the industry in Wisconsin after fire struck the city-owned building at 800 1st Ave. N. where the industry is located.

Building Restored

"We are going to stay in Escanaba," Norton advised the Escanaba City Council, which had met in special session to offer its help in restoring the city building leased by Norton. Within 34 days the industry was back in operation — to the surprise of even the fire insurance representatives.

Mrs. Norton is vice president of the firm, Carl W. Benzing is secretary and treasurer, and Ray Newman is general manager.

Today there is no evidence of the fire that consumed most of the roof of the big brick building and put the industry out of business. Operations have grown within the past year and the outlook is for better years ahead.

Northern Motor Rebuilders was established back in 1937 in the Northern Motor Company's garage for the purpose of rebuilding a few motors to be sold locally. The rebuilt Ford motors performed well and dealers in the U. P. became interested.

Norton put Northern Motor Rebuilders in its own home in July, 1947, in a location on Stephenson Ave., in a building leased from the city. Five years later Harnischfeger Corporation needed more space in the Stephenson Ave., location as its welding plant expanded operations, and Norton agreed to move the Rebuilders to its present location.

Just Like New

In the large brick building fronting on 1st Ave. N., with a spur line providing a rail connection with the Chicago & North Western Railway, Northern Motor Rebuilders is now going forward with an expansion in operations that promises well for the future.

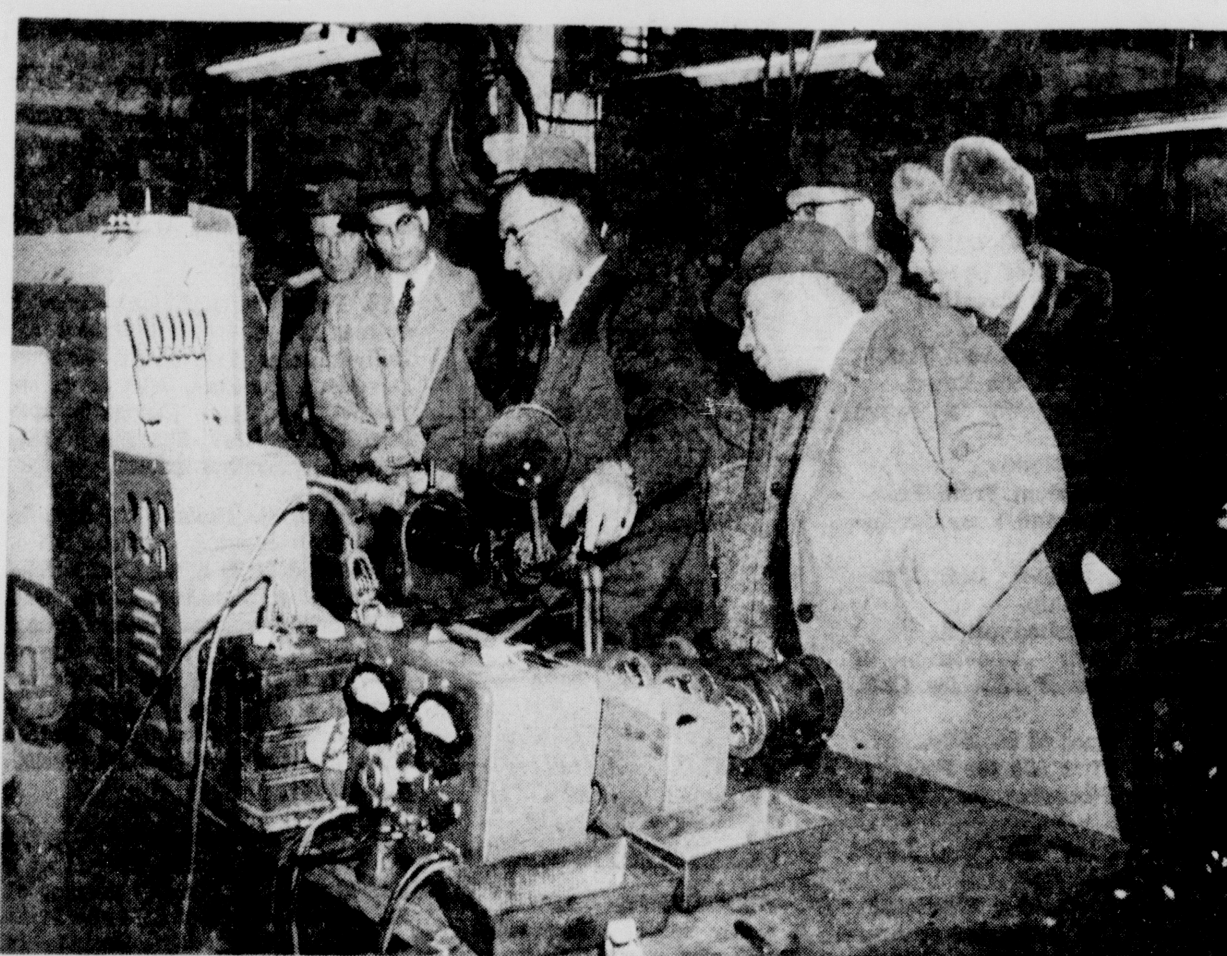

The industry has a motor rebuilding capacity of 50 motors in eight hours — all rebuilt to new motor specifications. When the used motors come to the plant they are dismantled and all parts are cleaned and inspected. Then in a series of operations all working parts of the motor are rebuilt to specifications.

Rebuilding of Ford motors comprises the bulk of operations, but beginning last Oct. 15 the rebuilding of motors of other makes was started and continues to grow. Now Chevrolet, Plymouth, Dodge, Chrysler, Henry J., Willys, Hudson, Studebaker and Kaiser-Frazer motors are being rebuilt in the Escanaba plant as well as Fords.

When the operation is completed the rebuilt motor has all of the appearance of a new motor and carries (for the general run of jobs) a guarantee of 90 days or 4,000 miles — whichever occurs first. For Ford, this is the same as a new motor guarantee.

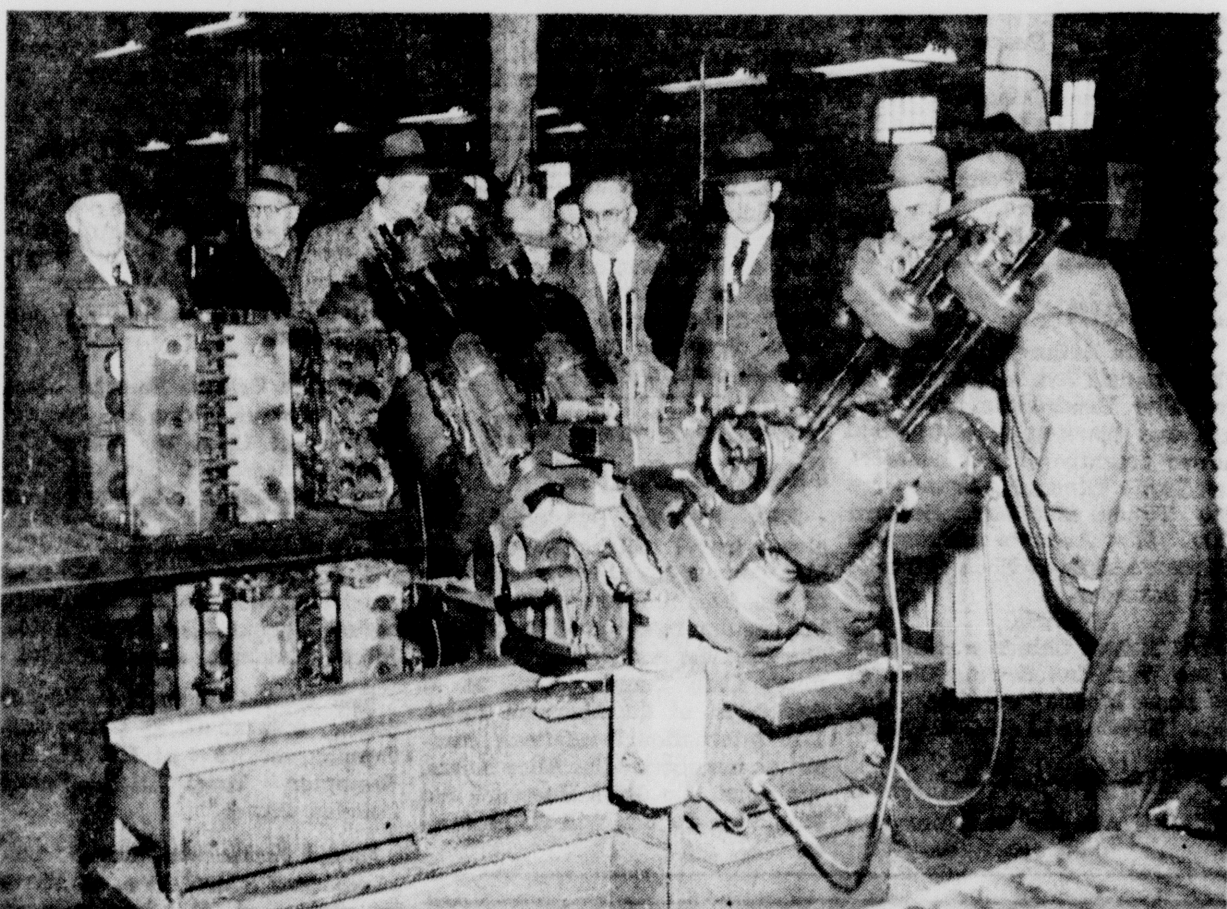

Small Parts Business

The rebuilding of small parts for autos was begun here the first week in December, 1954, and is

GENERATORS GET THE TEST—In rebuilding motors, they must test to meet new motor specifications. Small parts are also rebuilt and must meet rigid tests. Pictured is Ray Newman, general manager, demonstrating the testing of a rebuilt generator. The reconditioning of small parts for motors has become one of the Northern Motor Rebuilders growing operations. (Daily Press Photo)

members of the Escanaba Rotary Club, who toured the industry under the direction of Carl W. Benzing, company official, and Ray Newman, general manager. (Daily Press Photo)

growing rapidly. Carburetors, fuel pumps, distributors, brake shoes, generators, starters and oil pumps are being reconditioned and armatures are rewound.

Last month when the operation in small parts was getting under way a total of 2,700 units were rebuilt. It is expected this will grow to 5,000 units this month, and go still higher in the months ahead.

Of the 14 persons employed in small parts reconditioning, ten are women. The women are quick in handling small screws, gaskets and other parts of the units — and some of them are doing skilled tasks such as armature rewinding. It is a work in which women excel because of the deftness of fingers that are smaller than those of men.

The reconditioning of power brake units used on trucks and on some cars is to begin soon, adding to the variety of work in the small parts operation.

Northern Motor Rebuilders has another plant of approximately the same size at Charlotte, N. C., which was established in September, 1953.

Limping Goose

Frank Gruber

Copyright 1954 by Frank Gruber. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Johnny Fletcher and Sam Cragg, attempting to make a few dollars bill collecting, get a "goose bank" filled with $6.38 in small change in payment on a fur coat from Alice Cummings, former chorus girl. Alice had paid part in cash, but she had been anxious to get rid of Fletcher and Cragg because her boy friend, the wealthy Jess Carmichael III, was calling.

VI
Sam exclaimed, "What happened? You bumped yourself?" He had noticed Johnny's cheek. "Yes, I bumped myself. Against Mr. Kilkenny's fist. He was here right after you left—"
"Why, I'll tear the guy to pieces."
"If he comes back," Johnny exclaimed heavily. "He took the money—$52..."
"What about the $10 he promised if you collected the bill?" Johnny shook his head. "He's applying it on the mandolin bill. So we're broke again. Except for these pennies and dimes and quarters and..." Johnny's eyes lit up. "How much have you got left from that fiver I gave you?"
Abashed, Sam brought out a crumpled bill and some loose change. "A dollar forty-five."
Johnny groaned. "You ate $3.55 worth of food on top of what you had for lunch!"
"The bill was only three five, but I left a half-buck tip."
Johnny howled. "We're about to be thrown out of our hotel room and you go leaving 50-cent tips."
"Anyway, we got $1.45 and these dimes and pennies and quarters."
"There's not enough to keep Peabody from throwing us out on the street. And I don't know about these pennies. They might be more valuable than I think. I'd hate to give them to Peabody and then find out they were worth about $10,000."
"You think they might..."
"I'm going to find out."

He put on his coat and they left the hotel. They crossed to Fifth Avenue, then turned south to Forty-second, where they entered the huge New York Public Library.
In the card-file room, Johnny looked up books on rare coins and a few minutes later a book was presented to him in the big reading room. With Sam trailing, he carried it to one of the tables and rapidly turned the pages to Indian head pennies.
"Ha!" he exclaimed. "Eighteen fifty-six. Flying Eagle cent, worth $100 and up—"
"We got one of those?"
"No, our oldest coin is 1865, I believe. We'll look those up in a minute. Here—1861 cent, worth 50 cents to $1..."
"For a penny?"
"That's what the book says. And here's another, 1877, up to $50."
"Wow!" cried Sam.

Across the table an elderly man put his forefinger to his lips and whispered sibilantly. "Shhh!"
Johnny skimmed over a few pages. "Here's the dimes. Mmm, they seem to run about the same, maybe a little less even. Oh-oh, here's an exception, 1894-O—up to $2400."
"We got one of those, Johnny?"
"I hardly think so. It says here that only 24 were made."
"Take a look, I'm all goose pimples," Sam blinked, then chuckled. "Goose pimples— from a goose bank."
"Here," said Johnny. "We'll copy all this down about the dimes and the pennies. You got a pencil?"
"You know I never carry one. I haven't got anybody to write to," Johnny looked across the table. "Excuse me, but do you have a pencil I could borrow?"
"If it'll keep you quiet, here's a fountain pen," exclaimed the elderly reader.
"Thank you. You don't happen to have a couple of sheets of paper on you, do you?"
The reader groaned. "Here— here's a notebook, tear out some pages. Now, write please, and keep quiet awhile."
Johnny scribbled furiously, then returned the fountain pen and gathered up his sheets. "This'll do it. Goodbye, sir, and thank you for the use of the pen and the paper..."
Two chairs away, a heavy-set man with thick glasses slammed back his chair. "There's too much noise around here!"
Johnny put his finger to his lips. "Shhh! It's against the rules to yell in the library."

They walked down Forty-second Street. Passing the newsstand, Johnny's eyes went to the papers. A groan was forced from him. Johnny handed the news vendor a nickel. Then he opened the paper and exposed the headline to Sam.
JESS CARMICHAEL III FOUND SLAIN IN FIFTH AVENUE APARTMENT
"Holy cow!" gasped Sam Cragg. "That's the joint we were at this afternoon!"
Johnny continued to read the article. Finally he lowered the paper. "Something tells me that we're going to be in trouble."
"We didn't do it," cried Sam.
"We know we didn't, but will the police know? Look, it says here: The beautiful former show-girl gave police the names of two men who called on her a short time previously and threatened her with bodily injury." That's us, Sam.
"There's the subway," Sam said. "We got those dimes. We can be over in New Jersey in a half hour."
"If the police want us badly enough, they'll get us in Canada," Johnny, cried Sam in sudden panic. "You ain't going to play detective again, are you?"
"Who, me?" asked Johnny innocently.

Stage Lighting New Innovation For Home

A new light control system has been developed for homes permitting gradations in light intensity from complete darkness to full brightness.

The usual on-and-off light switches are supplanted by rheostats, which operate on the dimmer principle used in theaters. They carry loads up to 360 watts. A movable brush contact rides on a resistance winding to enable a rotating knob to regulate the amount of light desired.

Garage Modernized By Overhead Doors

Overhead doors mark a garage as modern. Anyone who has battled with snow, piling up behind swinging garage doors, appreciates the ease of unlocking and lifting up doors from the inside. Overhead types are easily installed with their running tracks, pulleys and balances. When properly hung a child can open them, without tearing the garage apart.

DADS SENTENCED
LYNCBURG, Va. (AP) — Two boys, aged 11 and 12, were brought before juvenile Court Judge O. R. Cundiff, charged with burglarizing a grocery store. He ordered an investigation.
Their fathers said they didn't know the boys were out that night. Judge Cundiff gave the dads 60 days in jail for neglecting the boys.

Workshop Patterns

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

As there is a lively revival of interest today in softly shaded metallic stenciling, we are showing some of the popular ways this art form was used back in the early Eighteen Hundreds. Boston rockers, Hitchcock chairs, trays and other antiques of tin and wood may be restored; modern pieces decorated with the designs on pattern 2988. I have attempted to cover every point the beginner will need to know to get excellent results. Just what materials will be needed and how to use them. The designs are printed on the pattern in actual size from which stencils are prepared. The price of the pattern is 25c. WORKSHOP PATTERN SERVICE Escanaba Daily Press Bedford Hills, New York

Caland Mine Dredges Will Start This Year

Two 36-inch dredges for operations to reach iron ore deposits beneath Steep Rock Lake, near Atikokan, Ont., now are being equipped. A. J. Cayia, of Manistique, vice president and general manager of Caland Ore Company Ltd., said today.

One dredge will begin operating May 1 and the other July 1, the company official said. The dredges will be used to clear Steep Rock lake, which is to be emptied, in preparation for mining an estimated 50 million tons of iron ore lying beneath it. Six hundred carloads of equipment were brought to the site for the dredges, Cayia said, and component parts now are being assembled.

Caland, a subsidiary of Inland Steel, will spend $50 million to develop the underwater mine. Mining is scheduled to begin in 1960.

The mine site is 130 miles west of Port Arthur. When it begins operating, the firm plans to employ 1200 men and mine three million tons of ore per year. Ore will be shipped by rail and boat to Inland Steel plants at Indiana Harbor.

Before operations can start, water must be pumped off the lake, to others in the area, and an estimated 160 million tons of silt must be removed.

The dredges will be named the Clarence B. Randall, in honor of the chairman of the board of Inland Steel, and the Joseph L. Block, in tribute to the president of Inland.

TWO SOUTH AFRICAN residents, Mrs. Joseph DeRapper and daughter, Doreen, 16, of Johannesburg, visited here this week with Mrs. DeRapper's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cherneski, 514 Delta Ave. Mrs. DeRapper is the former Sophie Jean Cherneski, of Manistique. She left here following graduation from high school and has lived in Africa for 20 years. The two have been visiting relatives in the United States since June. In the above picture are, left to right, Mrs. DeRapper, Mr. Cherneski, and Doreen. (Daily Press Photo)

Former Resident Soon Will Return To Africa Following Visit Here

High school in the United States appears easier—mostly because students take fewer subjects, a teenager from South Africa observed here this week after a visit in Manistique High School.

The student, Miss Doreen DeRapper, 16, is from Johannesburg, in the Transvaal, and since last June has been visiting in the United States, along with her mother, Mrs. Joseph DeRapper, who is the former Sophie Jean Cherneski, of Manistique.

The two came to the United States from Capetown, aboard the "African Moon", arriving in Boston June 21. They visited here and in Flint last summer, and until this week were in San Diego, Calif., with Mrs. DeRapper's mother, Mrs. Dora Cherneski, also a former Manistique resident. Here they have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cherneski, 514 Delta Ave. He is Mrs. DeRapper's brother.

Play Rugby

Doreen attends a private school operated by Sisters of Notre Dame and carries seven subjects as a senior. These include one class covering algebra, geometry and trigonometry, English, Afrikaans (the language there) botany, book-keeping, world history and world geography.

Students in both public and private schools in South Africa begin the school year Feb. 1 and attended through mid-December, except for 10 days free time at Easter and in October, and the month of July.

There seem to be more extracurricular activities in schools here, Doreen observed. South African students have much homework, but football is played, as well as rugby, soccer and cricket. All students wear uniforms, in public and private schools, and even shoes are of the same style, she noted.

The young girl and her mother will leave New York City Jan. 28 aboard the "African Lightning" to return to Johannesburg. Doreen is reluctant to leave because "this is the United States," but her mother is eager to be home. The young student has hopes of attending a South African University for nursing studies, and after that wants to "come to the United States and be a flight nurse in the Air Force."

Gasoline Higher

Her father is a technical representative for General Motors corporation in Johannesburg. The company has a manufacturing plant in Port Elizabeth and handles regular GM makes as well as the GM Vauxhall, made in England, and the Opel, made in Germany. Both the Vauxhall and Opel are smaller cars and use less gasoline, Mrs. DeRapper reports.

Sees Movie Stars

Mrs. DeRapper left Manistique in the mid-1920s and then worked in Chicago and Flint. In the latter city she met her husband, who was sent to the United States by the GM plant in South Africa.

She has lived in South Africa 20 years and this was her first trip back, as well as the first trip here for her daughter. Two of the DeRapper children, Barbara 19, and Allen 13, remained in Johannesburg with their father. He was born in Africa and is of English and French descent.

Strict segregation is practiced by South Africans, so colored people do not mingle with whites, Mrs. DeRapper said here. The colored people have their own neighborhoods, attend separate schools, and do not ride in the same cars with others, she stated. Most of them she noted, come from farms and settlements in the north to work in industrial plants.

Doreen's trip to the United States produced many interesting experiences, including a visit to Hollywood, where she saw Ann Blyth, Robert Stack and Jan Robinson. She also had hoped to see "der Bing" and "Liz" Taylor, but missed them. Even so, she reports, fellow students in South Africa are eagerly awaiting her return so she can tell them about her visit. Many American movies are shown in Johannesburg, Doreen said.

Meets Speech Class

Johannesburg and the area surrounding it does not have as many lakes and forests as the Manistique area, the two observed. Their home is about 300 miles from the famed diamond mines, and gold and coal fields are even nearer, they noted. There is no snowfall in Johannesburg, but seasonal changes can be noticed. It is now summer in Africa, they pointed out.

While here, Doreen visited Manistique High School with Joyce Fiegal, and answered questions about South Africa in Marvin Frederickson's speech class. She furnished a list of classmates to students here, so they can correspond by mail.

Not Guilty Plea Entered On Truck Overweight Charge

A plea of not guilty on a charge of overweight on a truck was entered in Justice court here Friday by R. E. McCraney, of Newberry, agent for the Kimberley Clark company of Wisconsin.

One of the firm's drivers, Paul Kleeman, of Engadine, was ticketed by the state weighmaster in Seney. He allegedly had 2300 pounds overweight on one axle and 1300 on another.

A hearing has been scheduled for 2 p. m., Jan. 25.

Three Present Hobby Program

A program on hobbies was presented for members of the Lakeside Central PTA Thursday night at Lakeside school by Carl Olson, Mrs. John Hanson and Mrs. Gertrude Greenwood.

Preceding the "hobby night" talks and displays, Miss Rhoda Wickwire, Alger-Schoolcraft county health nurse, presented information on a tuberculin testing program scheduled next month.

Olson, who displayed equipment and general principles of violin making and repair, introduced the program, pointing out that hobbies provide individuals with a means of "re-creating energy through change and interest appeal."

Many persons have made hobbies pay-off, he observed, but, mostly they provide relaxation and pleasure for leisure hours.

"We work 40 hours a week, and the remainder of the 168 hours in a week not spent sleeping and eating can be devoted to hobbies, he pointed out.

Mrs. Hanson described coin and rock collections she has made, and emphasized that parents should attempt to develop hobbies in which their children will and can participate.

Mrs. Greenwood, who displayed a number of oil paintings which she has made, told members that she began working with water colors two years ago, when she was unable to find Christmas cards she liked. The hobby grew, and "painting in oil is easier because you can cover up or take off your mistakes," she noted.

More Than 800 Buy 1955 Plates

A total of 835 license plates have been purchased at the branch office of secretary of state here, Gordon L. Denny, manager, reports.

Schoolcraft residents have obtained 595 passenger car plates, 90 commercial plates and 150 for trailers, he said. Normally, about 4,000 vehicle license plates are sold here yearly.

Deadline for obtaining 1955 licenses is Feb. 28. Purchasers must bring car titles and registrations with them.

A FINNISH FORESTER, Fredrick Casimir de la Chapelle, of Helsinki, visited in Manistique Thursday and Friday, studying power methods of timber logging. He arrived in the United States last June and will return to Finland in May, after studying forestry methods in the northern part of the United States and in Canada. He is employed by a Finnish firm which manufactures newsprint. His tour by car in the U. S. and Canada is sponsored by the firm. The forester explained that 90 per cent of Finland's products are harvested with hand labor. Power equipment is too costly for most firms, he said. It is hoped that his tour in the Western Hemisphere will yield ideas by which Finnish timber firms can make some of their own needed power equipment, he stated. In the above picture with de la Chapelle, at left in the front row, are Robert Kannerva, at right in front, Finnish-speaking commercial teacher here; Principal Carl Olson of Manistique High School; and Norman Oliver, who brought the forester to the High School for a visit. Today the Finnish visitor was scheduled to tour the paper mill. He is a descendant of French Huguenots who migrated into Finnish territory several centuries ago. (Daily Press Photo)

Eskymos Fall 68-54 On Ishpeming Court As Rebounding Fails

ISHPEMING — In spite of a nearly 50 per cent shooting pace from the field, the Escanaba Eskymos suffered a 68-54 setback at the hands of the Ishpeming Hematites last night.

The trouble came from lack of rebounding, as Escanaba couldn't get its hands on the ball often enough to catch the Hematites in a second half battle.

The Eskymos trailed 15-12 at the end of the first period and 34-31 at the half. Ishpeming turned on the pressure in the third period to spread the margin to 46-39 and then outscored Escanaba 22-15 in the finale.

Ishpeming's rebound control was the difference under both baskets. The Eskymos rarely had more than one crack at a field goal while Ishpeming was pulling the ball off the boards consistently.

Personal fouls cut the Escanaba chances for victory in the second half. Coach Jim Betchek lost Jim Bolm with seven minutes remaining in the third period, Mike Heminger at the end of the third and Ricky Erickson in the closing minutes of the game.

Ishpeming was paced on the scoreboard by a front line trio led by Kosonen who clicked for 22 points. Kelly hit 17 and Mattewis 16.

The Eskymo quint had previously defeated Ishpeming on the Escanaba floor by a 51-41 margin.

Escanaba's Bee team suffered a 51-41 defeat in the preliminary game.

Hawks Tackle Pioneers Here Sunday; Olson Tops Scorers

The Escanaba Hawks return to the Northern Michigan-Ontario Hockey League wars Sunday afternoon at 2:15 in a home stand at the fairgrounds rink against the Portage Lake Pioneers.

In their last two meetings with the Pioneers, who finished at the head of the league standings last season, the Hawks played to a 6-6 tie and won 4-1. In the first clash of the teams early in the season the Pioneers won 14-3.

The Hawks have definitely caught fire in recent games and are making a strong bid to move out of the NMO cellar. Escanaba is currently in fifth place in the standings, but only four points behind the league-leading Canadian Soo Esquires.

Could Move Up

A win over Portage Lake Sunday could move Escanaba up to a tie with the Pioneers for third, depending on the outcome of tonight's game between Marquette and Calumet. Marquette is in second place and Calumet in fourth.

The Hawks will be fired up for their meeting with the rugged Pioneers, whom they defeated in sensational fashion in the annual Doc Gibson cup playoffs last season.

The Hawks have not been beaten in their last three starts. They played the 6-6 tie at Houghton Jan. 16 and a 3-3 tie against Marquette here Jan. 18 before trimming Calumet 6-5 in a makeup game Thursday night.

Olson Top Scorer

Player-coach Mark Olson continues to lead the Hawks in the scoring department. Olson scored once and had two assists Thursday night to increase his point-total to 22. Steve Butorac remains in second place in the list with 18 and Buddy Provo is third with nine. Swift-skating Warner Wilson climbed to fourth with his "hattrick" performance against the Raiders.

Butorac is the team's leader in penalty time, having spent 14 minutes in the box this season. Joe Nogalo is next with 12 and Olson third with 10.

The Hawks' scoring list:

Blackhawks Will Play Wildcats Sunday Night

The Escanaba Blackhawks, junior version of the senior Hawks of the Northern Michigan-Ontario circuit, will be in home action for the first time this season Sunday night at 8 at the fairgrounds indoor rink.

Furnishing the opposition for the Escanaba team will be the Menominee Wildcats. It will mark the first meeting of the Upper Peninsula Amateur League teams this winter.

In their only previous game, the Blackhawks turned in an impressive 9 to 1 victory over the Gladstone Indians. Gladstone and Menominee played to a 3-3 tie last week.

Menominee has been playing hockey for several years and has come up with some outstanding performers. Nick DeDamos, former Menominee prep athlete, was a standout in the game against Gladstone.

The Blackhawks, handled by Ovid Provo, are youngsters up to 17 years of age. Aimo Muhonen, youthful star with the Escanaba Hawks, led the Blackhawks against Gladstone with four goals.

No admission will be charged at the game Sunday night but spectators may contribute to a fund to purchase sticks and equipment for the team members.

Cooks Easy Winner Over Grand Marais

GRAND MARAIS—The Cooks cagers turned in their third win of the season here last night with an easy 53-35 decision over Grand Marais.

Coach Art Allen's Cooks team took a 17-4 lead in the first period and was never threatened. All 11 Cooks players saw early action. Ken Kauten took scoring honors with 17 points.

Cropp hit 12 and Traeger 11 for the Grand Marais quint.

Cooks will face Bark River and Gwinn in next week's action.

Cage Team Breaks Long Loss Streak

CLAY, W.Va. (AP)—Widen High School broke a 63-game losing streak Friday night with a 52-44 victory over Walkersville High.

Chips Are Down For Three Of Nation's Top Quintets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's "put up or shut up" in college basketball today for North Carolina State, Tennessee and Iowa.

Wolfpack fans claim NCS, No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll, is the fairest in the land, with an obvious disregard for top-ranked Kentucky. If it's true what they say about Dixie's best, it should show tonight when the Wolfpack plays at home to fourth-ranked LaSalle and the incomparable Tom Gola.

Tennessee Coach Emmett Lowery was quoted this week as saying to Vols have an "excellent chance" of beating Col. Adolph Rupp's Kentuckians tonight at Knoxville. It's all in the mind when you play the Wildcats, Lowery said.

And Iowa, a shaky preseason favorite for the Big Ten title, meets the first of probably numerous showdowns this afternoon at Northwestern. After upsetting Illinois Monday night at Iowa City, the Hawkeyes could possibly take over the lead with an important road victory. It's the Big Ten's TV game of the week (CBS, 3 p.m., CST).

In tonight's attractions, North Carolina State thinks it has the guns to stop Gola and LaSalle in the shooting and rebounding artistry of 6-10 Cliff Dwyer and 6-8 Ron Shavlik.

The Wolfpack, which has dumped LaSalle only twice in five previous meetings, has a 15-3 record—with two of the defeats suffered in the past 10 days. LaSalle has a 13-3 record, including a 63-54 tournament defeat by Kentucky.

At Knoxville, Coach Lowery says he has nothing fancy planned for Kentucky, nor does he expect anything special from Rupp. Lowery says Tennessee and Kentucky "are the only Southeastern Conference teams that stick basically to the man-to-man defense. . . . We know pretty well that they are going to do, and the same goes for them."

Iowa has to get the job done and then sit back and watch the result of the Minnesota-Michigan State game at East Lansing. An Iowa victory coupled with a Minnesota defeat would leave the Hawkeyes in the No. 1 spot in the Big Ten. Iowa, beaten by the Gophers, and Minnesota, beaten by Northwestern, share the lead with 3-1 records.

Northwestern (2-1) could jump into the lead by defeating Iowa if Minnesota were upset by Michigan State.

The Gophers and Spartans meet in one of two conference games tonight with Ohio State and Purdue rounding out the schedule.

Michigan State, led by Al Ferrari and Julius McCoy, is hard to beat at East Lansing. Both of Michigan State's two Big Ten triumphs were scored at home. The Spartans have three losses.

Ohio State (1-2) and Purdue (1-3) battle at Lafayette.

The Buckeyes beat Michigan State in their conference opener and then lost to Michigan and Illinois in succession.

Purdue opened with a victory over Northwestern but was beaten by Illinois, Minnesota and Northwestern.

Illinois and Wisconsin are both idle tonight. Neither returns to conference play until February. Illinois, however, has a Chicago Stadium meeting with Loyola of Chicago, Jan. 29.

Close Battle For Top Honors In Keg Classic

CHICAGO (AP)—The battle for the top spot in the National All-Star bowling tournament headed into the last half of the final rounds today with possession of first place as wobbly as a ten-pin.

The four front-ranking shooters in the men's division, with a hot streak, appeared having a chance to take the lead. The next four bowlers were not too far off the pace as firing opened in today's 16 games. The 16 finalists shoot the last of the 64 match games Sunday.

Under the Petersen point system, only 48 pins separated the top four men. Heading the standings, after 32 games, was stocky Ed Lubanski, one of six Detroit eggers in the finals.

Tops Teammate
The 25-year-old Lubanski took over the lead Friday from Tom Hennessey, his teammate on the Detroit Stros. Pete Carter, a third member of the world champion Stros team, wasn't too far behind in fourth place. Veteran Steve Nagy of Cleveland, in third place, gave the Motor City trio something to worry about as he gave the crowd at the Coliseum a thrill Friday with the tourney's highest game, a mighty 290.

Lubanski had 152.27 points, a scant 25 pins ahead of Hennessey, who had 152.02. Nagy's 151.34 and Carter's 151.29 points indicated the tourney could wind up with one of the closest finishes in history. Lubanski grabbed the lead on a 944 four game series against Carl Richard of Parsons, Kan. He held it during Friday night's competition, although he lost to Bob Prince of Detroit and Bob Nickel of Toledo, Ohio.

Carter Is Eighth
Defending champion Don Carter of St. Louis wasn't counted out of the running for one of bowling's most prized titles, the national individual match game championship. He was in eighth place with a point total of 147.10, only 5.17 behind Lubanski.

In the women's division, only seven pins separated the first two shooters. Miss Sylvia Wene, a Philadelphia saleslady who twice has finished second in the All-Star meet, led at the end of 16 games, the half-way mark. She took first place on Friday night's final squad by sweeping her two game set from Mary Lou Graham of Miami.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig of Grand Rapids, Mich., who has won the title for the past five years, was in fifth place with 70.23 points, only 2.20 behind Miss Wene who had 72.43.

Hodges Reaps Reward For Tremendous Year

BROOKLYN (AP)—Gil Hodges, greatest slugger in Brooklyn history, reaped rich rewards for his outstanding 1954 season today. He signed a contract calling for an estimated $30,000, an increase of $7,000.

The 30-year-old first baseman had his best year last season. His 304 batting averages, 42 homers, 130 runs batted in, 335 total bases, .579 slugging percentage and 176 hits were his personal highs.

In addition, he led all National League first basemen with 1,381 putouts, 132 assists and 1,520 total chances.

In a press conference called for his signing, Hodges told reporters he expected Don Newcombe to return to winning form in 1955.

"If Newk can regain the winning touch, and I see no reason why he shouldn't," said Hodges, "then I believe we're going to win the pennant."

Hodges surprisingly showed little respect for the Milwaukee Braves, generally expected to give the Giants a tussle for the 1955 pennant.

"Sure they'll be tough," he said, "especially if Bobby Thomson is sound again. But I think they'll need pitching help."

"I rate the Giants much tougher than the Braves. The club that might surprise everybody, however, could be the Cincinnati Reds. They've got power right down the line."

Hodges pointed out that the Giants would be hard pressed to repeat because "those guys have got to repeat their great years."

University May Sponsor Flint Senior College

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The University of Michigan has taken the first step toward setting up an affiliate senior college at Flint—the first permanent university venture outside Ann Arbor in more than 100 years.

The University's Board of Regents Friday passed a resolution viewing with favor the proposal of the Flint Board of Education to establish the college.

Details To Come

University president Harlan Hatcher said that the board of education has proposed that the university operate the senior college in connection with the city-operated Flint Junior College, with both bodies, offer a full four-year baccalaureate program.

The regents unanimously approved the proposal and authorized Dr. Hatcher to prepare a memorandum of general agreement with Flint officials.

The regents reserved approval on the details such as administration, proposed budget for submission to the Legislature and time schedule.

The regents also would determine "the courses of study and requirements for degrees, the employment of the staff, and the assignment and use of space in the senior college buildings and grounds."

Would Cost $250,000

Hatcher explained that the University set up special branches in 1837 at Pontiac, Kalamazoo, Monroe, Detroit, White Pigeon, Tecumseh, Romeo and Ann Arbor. These branches were discontinued in 1846 although some of them continued to operate independently.

University officials believed, contingent upon legislative and regent approval, that the Flint Senior College, as such, could begin classes by the fall of 1956.

It was estimated that the initial cost of the Flint school would be about $250,000.

Dean Harden Resigns At Michigan State To Take Industrial Post

EAST LANSING (AP)—Dean Edgar L. Harden, Michigan State College's faculty representative to the Big Ten, was expected to resign today from all campus positions to enter private business.

The announcement presumably will be made at the meeting of the Michigan State Board of Agriculture, governing body of the college.

Harden, 47, will become executive vice president of the Drop Forging Assn. of Cleveland, Ohio, in charge of research and public relations.

Harden is dean of continuing education at MSC and chairman of the Athletic Council. He has been at Michigan State since 1946.

Boy Wins Celebrity Welcome In Chicago With 1886 Bottle

CHICAGO (AP)—A 9-year-old Muskegon, Mich., boy got a celebrity's welcome Thursday when he came to Chicago to collect a $1 reward for finding a postcard in a bottle floating in Lake Michigan.

The youth, David Pyle, found the bottle with the postcard last week. It had been tossed into Lake Michigan in 1886 by the Chicago Drainage and Water Supply System, which at the time was making a study of the lake's currents.

Finders of the corked bottles who returned the postcards were

A CHECK FOR $250 was presented to George Kulak, principal of Rock High School, last night by the Rock Post of the American Legion. Making the presentation are Sula Rutsola, commander, and Eugene Falck, finance officer of the post. The money will be used for the payment of the new gymnasium bleachers. (Daily Press Photo)

Toehold Of Straits Bridge Completed; Waiting For Spring

ST. IGNACE (AP)—A toe-hold gained for the 100 million dollar Straits of Mackinac Bridge, contractors have moved $4,000,000 worth of marine equipment into harbor to await the coming of spring and resumption of construction.

Chairman Prentiss M. Brown of the Mackinac Bridge Authority released a report that at "the end of the first construction season, we find that all work scheduled for the season has been substantially completed."

Keeping On Schedule

Thirty-three underwater piers, including six gigantic foundations which will support the main center span, were sunk by Merritt Chapman & Scott Corp., which holds the subcontracture contract.

Dr. D. B. Steinman, the authority's consulting engineer, told Brown in a letter:

"We feel that a most remarkable job has been done by the contractors during this first season and that the delays encountered were far less than is common on other similar projects.

"We are still maintaining our original schedule and plan to have the bridge open to traffic on or before Nov. 1, 1957."

Additional work will be required on main tower foundations next spring to permit erection of the steel towers to begin June 1.

Thirty-eight additional foundations, five of them of major size, also are scheduled for construction in 1955.

The main steel towers, from which the bridge's main span will be suspended, will rise 552 feet above the water. That height is the equivalent of a 46-story office building.

Longest In World

The overall length of the suspension span, including anchorages, will be 8,614 feet, making it the longest in the world. The distance between the two main towers will be 3,800 feet.

When ice moved into the straits, forcing abandonment of construction until spring, the south anchorage for the bridge's cables stood 10 feet above the water line. It contains 110 tons of steel and 56,350 cubic yards of concrete, and will get a topping of another 30,000 cubic yards of concrete when work is resumed.

The north cable anchorage, founded on bed rock like the south one, contains 114 tons of steel and 60,350 cubic yards of concrete. The south one goes 88 feet below the surface, the north one 95 feet.

Foundations on which the cables will rest as they sweep down from the main towers to the anchorage are sunk 130 feet below the straits and are 92 feet long, 41 feet wide. They are of steel and concrete and will get steel superstructures in the spring.

No Decision Made On Successor For Dean Harden At MSC

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State College president John A. Hannah said Friday no decision has been made as yet on a successor for the athletic posts held by Dean Edgar L. Harden.

Harden, Dean of the College of Continuing Education, submitted his resignation Friday to accept a position as vice president of the Drop Forging Assn., of Cleveland, Ohio.

Harden is MSC faculty representative to the Big Ten and chairman of the athletic council.

Dr. Hannah, noting that the

Grants TO MSC Total $234,554

LANSING (AP)—Awards for Grants totalling $234,554 have been accepted for Michigan State College by the State Board of Agriculture, college governing body.

The largest grant was $71,600 from the Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh, Pa., for a graduate fellowship program in the department of political science.

A grant of $51,920 was accepted from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek for new construction and alterations at the Kellogg Biological Station at Gull Lake.

The board was told that negotiations are still under way with the foreign operations administration on a proposal to have the college send a mission to help organization of the South Viet-Nam government.

The project will take about 30 staff men and will cost $3,685,000 over a three-year period, the board was told. The FOA will underwrite the cost of the mission.

The board accepted a gift of Chinese silk textiles from Dr. Shao Chang Lee, head of the college's department of foreign studies.

Dr. Lee said the gift was made in honor of the college's centennial year and followed the oriental custom of presenting gifts to an institution on the occasion of an important event in its history.

Changes Outlined In Lifer Paroles

LANSING (AP)—Major changes to Michigan's penal code, including liberalization of the "lifer law" to permit parole of first degree murderers, were recommended in an annual report released today by the State Corrections Commission.

The report recommended legislation to permit parole consideration for first degree murderers after a period of confinement to be determined by the legislature.

Under present law, a first degree murder can hope for early release only through commutation of his sentence by the governor.

Other recommendations: Appointment of a committee by the Legislature to study the penal code with an eye toward recodification.

Amendment of the code to allow jail sentences instead of prison sentences for persons convicted of high misdemeanors.

The report said the State Parole Board considered the cases of 6,581 inmates during 1954.

American Military Observers Removed From Tachen Islands

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—A U.S. military observer team of four or five officers and enlisted men headed by a colonel has been quietly withdrawn from the Tachen Islands 200 miles north of Formosa.

The islands, threatened by Communist invasion, are within artillery range of Yikingshan island which the Chinese Reds seized from the Nationalists earlier this week.

The U.S. Military Assistance and Advisory Group headquarters here refused to say anything except that the observer team had "no trouble" in getting to Formosa.

Resignation was not effective until June 30, said no immediate decision was needed on filling the athletic posts.

Unity Cracked In Arab League

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—An uneasy group of Arab premiers sought today to settle their darkening dispute over joining with the West in a Middle East defense pact.

Egypt called the emergency meeting in an attempt to line up her Arab neighbors against oil-rich Iraq whose premier, Nuri Said, announced last week that his government would sign a mutual defense treaty with American-backed Turkey.

Nuri's action cracked the unity of the Arab League, which has remained aloof from ties with either East or West, and threatened Egypt's leadership of the Arab world.

Nuri himself sent word he was too ill to attend today's meeting. Egypt insisted on going ahead without him, despite Iraq's request for postponement of the conference.

Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser's government—which only a few months ago formed an agreement with Britain for evacuation of British troops from the Suez Canal zone—insists the Arab States should rely only on themselves for defense.

But Lebanon's Premier Sami Solh expressed his government's uneasiness over the chance of Soviet attack when he said the Arab States by themselves could not defend the Middle East against outside aggression.

Central Heating Not Healthy, British Say; Sniffle And Shiver

By ALVIN STEINKOPF (For Hal Boyle)

LONDON (AP)—Around this time of year the British, with chunks of ice clattering up their landscape, explain at length what is wrong with central heating.

They don't have much of it, and seem determined not to have any more.

Central heating, in case the term is unfamiliar means the process of heating your house with a furnace.

Water Pipes Burst

There are icicles in the bath room. That perverse water pipe on the outside wall of the house has burst again, and when the faucet is turned in the kitchen nothing happens.

Despite all this the British householder argues that central heating isn't necessary because Britain has a temperate climate. It doesn't get very cold, he says—except in the winter time. Why make an engine room out of the basement just on account of one season?

Besides, it is only an exceptional winter that gets cold. When it is pointed out that every winter since the Norman conquest back in 1066 has been exceptional, he replies but of course next year will get back to normal.

There are many reasons why central heating is wicked.

There is the prevalent conviction that it is unhealthy. The Briton sneezes and sniffles, rubs his chest with ointments and comes down with chills and fibrositis and gets a chill. But he is certain that warmth of a hot water radiator would make him sick.

"Dries the air, you know, and takes all the vitality out of it."

Roast On One Side

Then there is something sinful about having the whole house warm when you live in only one room at a time. Soft, self-indulgence.

And what is pleasanter or more romantic than the glow of a coal fire in an open grate?

The open coal fire may make as much smudge as glow, and it roasts a gentleman on one side and permits him to get goose pimples on the other. So the Englishman wanting to get his surface uniformly warm has developed a technique on rotating slowly before the fire, as if he were on a vertical spit.

There is one well established form of central heating in Britain. It is in greenhouses. Fireplaces were tried, but tomato plants refused to thrive hot on one side and cold on the other. Tomatoes have to be warm all over, like Americans and Swedes.

Liquor Sales Almost Catch Up With 1953

LANSING (AP)—Spurred by banner December sales, Michigan's liquor sales in the past year almost caught up with the previous year.

The State Liquor Control Commission said the 1954 sales totalled $161,021,574, or 1.12 per cent below the previous year.

In December sales reached $25,731,892 compared to $20,630,262 for the same month in 1953.
